

Parents Rest Peacefully with the Safety Sleeper

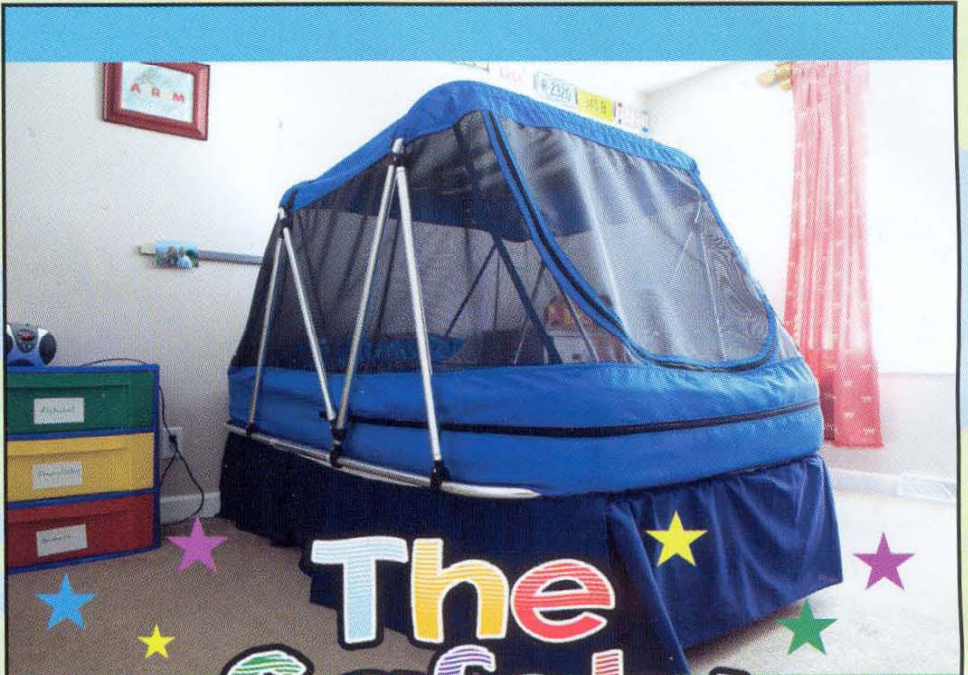

By Janice Lane Palko

It is said that necessity is the mother of invention. Combine necessity with a lack of sleep and you get a mom motivated to get some rest and at the same time keep her child safe. Rose Morris, a wife and mother of three, including son Abram, who is autistic, found herself several years ago at her wits end. Abram kept climbing out of his crib. Morris and her husband bought a crib tent, which Abram quickly figured out how to escape from. Afraid that he would hurt himself from falling from his crib, the Morrises moved him to a toddler bed, but Abram would get up and spin until he fell or woke someone. They feared for his safety and were weary from lack of sleep.

During a visit with friends, where Abram managed to escape the portable bed that they put him in to sleep and had secured with an afghan on top, secured with bungee cords, Rose theorized about the ideal bed for her son. From that discussion The Safety Sleeper was born.

The Safety Sleeper is a fully enclosed, portable bedframe. It is lightweight and durable and most importantly will keep a child safely in his or her bed and night allowing parents the rest they need. The Safety Sleeper is attractive, child-friendly and can be custom made to accommodate any size mattress, which fits inside The Safety Sleeper, allowing the child to enjoy his favorite bedding. Since it is portable, it makes the child who does not adapt well to a change of environment to feel that he or she is in familiar surroundings.
